Serial No.

Average Salary

For purposes of calculating average salary the salary of an Officer for the last three years preceding the day on which he proceeds on leave is taken into account under the existing Rules, Art. 9 M.S.R. According to the Fundamental Rules (F.R. 9(2)) average pay ~~means the~~ is the average monthly pay earned during the 12 months immediately preceding the month in which the event occurs which necessitates the calculation of average pay. To avoid ~~the~~ calculating the salary for such a long period as three years ~~the~~ which ~~seems~~ is unnecessary and to avoid large variation between the amount of salary drawn by an Officer prior to his going on leave and the amount of leave allowances he would get it is suggested that the proviso in the Fundamental Rules may be adopted here also. This question was once considered in 1922 but the British Indian Rule was not ~~followed~~

DEWAN'S OFFICE 20 JUNE 1938 No.

Submitted to His Highness.

Under the existing rule in Article 9, Mysore Service Regulations, the average salary of an officer is the salary of the officer drawn during the last three years preceding the day on which he proceeds on leave. With a view to simplifying the rule, the Financial Secretary suggests the adoption of the Fundamental Rule 9 (2) according to which average pay is the average monthly pay earned during the twelve months immediately preceding the month in which the event occurs which necessitates the calculation of the average pay. He says that there may not be much extra cost on this account. The adoption of the rule in the Fundamental Rules agreed to by me and the Members of Council may be graciously approved.
